

Part II

The Shadow Offensive

Follow-up

Since the first part of this story had been written, Zater went to the capital of the JRA and killed Gen. Zorton and declared himself general. He then destroyed the JRA and has the members rejoin the army to join the fight. He then reconstructed the fortress and had a getaway ship stored underneath just in case. He also built a new gun, which he tested it on Starfire and Squadron, who by now are married to each other. By the time that he had the opportunity to strike, he found out that he's a Shadow emissary and they wanted him to help out in their fight. He destroyed his fortress, released his getaway ship and had it and his army converted with Shadow equipment. The Shadows are now heading towards the Inner Worlds. The Ultra (United) Army had evacuated the civilians to the Outer Worlds. Now that the danger was realized that they must get the Dragonblades so that they can have some chance to defeat the Shadows and get them closer to chaos fight and the final battle with the remnants of the R.O.T. We now pick up the story from this time period.

Chapter V--"The Shadows"

The Shadows have now reached Earth and released their spiballs and started to attack. The fighters' tentacles destroyed some of the United Army's planes. Gen. Wazhir realized this and he had Mortalika design some tentacles based on the Shadows' technology. He looked for volunteers, but nobody wanted to wear the tentacles. Finally, two hybrids, Ravar and Gauntron, decided to wear them. They went out and thrashed a few Shadowbugs for autopsy, but only Ravar returned because Gauntron was destroyed in the battle.

Meanwhile, Dominatron and a few floatin' gunners went out and ransacked the city. Cirkronus, Montier with a battleoid, Staracer all tried to stop him, but failed. Only Cura and the powers of the white armor and blade managed to stop Dominatron. When he received the white powers, all other holders of dragonblades were temporarily turned to stone. Cura used the stamina to make a claw and scrape his shoulder, then Dominatron speeded towards him, but he was lifted into the air and was twirled. When Dominatron was getting weak, the gunners wimped out and flew. Cura then slashed out the white sword and sliced Dominatron down the side. Then Dominatron fell to the ground and White Armor drove the sword into his belly and made him disappear back to the shadows. The White Armor then disappeared and the others got their powers back and are no longer stone.

They gathered information about the attack and the shadows, but they still don't have complete info about their powerful tentacles, which seems to slow them down every time they fought against them. They still need to know more about this threat which they need to defeat and eliminated for good. They also surveyed the sector for more shadows, but they didn't find any. They talked about the battle and Wazhir said, "How are we going to beat those shadows if their ships are invisible and their weakness very hard to find and detect. We got to find a way to beat those shadows and get Dominatron and blow him up for good."

They then went to New York where they saw Dominatron with his floatin' guns and his usual crew roaming the city knocking over skyscrapers, but two ships, VRS Wazhir and VRS

Los Angeles came in to stop Dominator. They tried phasers, nova cannons, plasma cannons, mutilators, and everything else, but there's only one way to destroy it, unite the Dragonblades and aim it at him. Draxar agreed to it and he gave them their swords and they inserted it into their scabbards. The other blades' powers were then turned over to the green sword to make it the white sword and blast it at Dominatron. It worked and he was finished and the blades got their powers back and were still fighting some of the remaining shadowbugs when they heard that the Shadows had attacked Detroit and planning another advance. They then went back to H.Q. and switch over to land vehicles and drove to Detroit.

Chapter VI--"The Battle of Detroit"

They made it to Detroit and had the city surrounded and cut off Ambassador Bridge and the Detroit-Windsor Tunnel. Magnus Zater enlarged himself and started to wreck the city when Staracer used his wand to turn Targa and Varga into Superdragon and used their powers to pound Zater into the ground, punch him upside his head, launch him into orbit, and chop him into pieces with their staff. Dominatron appeared and released his rollers onto the city, but they were destroyed when Zagrata blasted them from top of Cobo Hall. The Shadows called forth several mechs to do battle Monitor and his battleoids. The battleoids managed to intensely render the mechs useless, since they can't offer the shadows much use in combat. Due to the difficulties, they can't use a mech with only one leg, so they abandoned it and skipped on their sky bikes and were followed and shot at. The U.S. Army chased the groundsmen and opened fire on them. The bullets had no effect on them, so they got out the laser weapons and shot them to pieces with little man-to-alien combat, which they outwitted them with ease. Zagrata released her creations on the shadows and they were trying to fight them off, but to no avail. Dominatron was setting up several traps, but we found out about them and he dismantled them. He then called forth his floatin' guns to destroy the tanks. He should have reverted that command because the tanks can turn those guns into metal snippets.

Dominatron later saw the White Dragonblade Armor coming and the floatin' guns ran off because they knew he's finished when they saw it. He then battled that armor left and right, but he's gettin' whipped because he counters his moves. The armor first punches him upside his jaw, then throws him into the air. Next, he shot blades at him. After that, he torched, clawed, stepped and jumped on him, drilled his head and blew him up. The white armor then returned to green and he headed up Michigan Avenue towards Tiger Stadium and more trouble.

Draxar showed up at Tiger Stadium and saw more trouble in form of Shadowbugs and mechs. He deactivated the green armor and shot three maple blades he borrowed from a couple of Canadian soldiers at 3 mechs and they fell down with a crash. After the battle, the shadows left town and headed towards their secret base to devise another plan. He then headed back to base as they prepare to head off to relocate the shadows and their new base. They then packed up and headed back to Ohio and their bases to further examine the gathered information.

Chapter VII--"Operation: Secret Base"

Draxar came in a few days later saying that he will try to find and penetrate the shadow's secret base. Berrican, Draxar's old friend, has come to the base to visit, talked to his friend about the plan and they agreed on it. He then gave him some video equipment, when Groznyy came in saying, "If you are thinking about getting into that base, you need me to help you with your spying." He agreed and they left their dragonblades behind and wrote a note that they're going to join the enemy and try to bring them down. They then left for the shadows.

Draxar and Groznyy arrived at a Shadow airfield bound for their destination. They prepared their equipment to capture all that happens and their secrets of the base. The flight to the base was a 17-minute trip to Sarajevo. Once there, they met and worked for Magnus Zater and Dominatron. Their acceptance into the Shadows was brief and soon after that they got their tentacles and started work for them. They were first assigned to work with the Shadowbugs. As soon they got to the field, they pretended to go along with Shadows and captured their enemy. Draxar acted like a Shadow while he's on the battlefield, but when he made it back to the base, he hid behind their backs, stole their technology, freed the prisoners, fled from the base, and call the rest of the troops. As soon the rest of crew got there, he and Groznyy signaled the attack and the base went down in rubble.

Chapter VIII--"The Army of the Dead"

They have met their next enemy, The Deacon, at Forgornia. Freddy remembered from his short stay at his home planet, that he had a grudge with the Deacon and wanted to get even. He hired Zater's old cronies after Dominatron arrested him. He wanted to get back at him and he will have a chance.

But before they met the Deacon, they fought, arrested, and later killed Zater, Domintron, and Xit. They then went to a secret hideaway to decide on a new leader and new plans. Meanwhile, the Imperial Army had made a new alliance with a previously undiscovered Aberi race. They gave them new info, weapons, troops, and vehicles. They then started to fight together against our enemy. After awhile we heard that they went to the Ancestral Plain after we destroyed them and started to invade the empire, especially, Pyramid City. Those attacks fail when they discovered ghost-fighting weapons. After all those defeats, they hired, "Nokas Solis", Dark Sun to fight the Army. He fought a few battles, including Invasion of Trigonía, where he introduced Arachino-terror, Arachino-khan, Insectbots, Waspcopters, mechanical frogs, and other weird stuff. We fought back by taking some of his toys, used Spidols and a mechanical tarantula to destroy his robotic spiders. They thought that a Taberan invasion could bring them a victory, but they were defeated, turned back home, and the Zeta Empire took over the Taberan homeworld.

TO BE CONCLUDED IN 1998